

Laura Suchostawska

Space and Metaphor

Polish Verbal Prefixes
Expressing the Relations
INTO-OUT OF and TO-AWAY FROM

Oficyna Wydawnicza Politechniki Wrocławskiej

CONTENTS

Introduction	6
1. The theoretical background	7
1.1. Cognitive semantics	7
1.1.1. Language and meaning	7
1.1.2. Verbs in cognitive semantics	9
1.1.3. Complex structures and complex verbs	9
1.1.4. Trajectors and landmarks	11
1.1.5. Trajectors and landmarks of complex verbs	12
1.1.6. Image schemas	13
1.2. Metaphor	15
1.2.1. The nature and role of metaphor	15
1.2.2. Spatial metaphors	17
1.2.3. Metaphorical mapping and the invariance hypothesis	17
1.2.4. Literal and metaphorical expressions	18
1.3. Polysemy	19
1.3.1. Categorization	19
1.3.2. The cognitive approach to polysemy	21
1.3.3. The relationship between polysemy and semantic change	22
1.3.4. Networks of senses of polysemous lexical items	23
1.3.5. Cognitive studies of prepositions	24
1.3.6. Polysemy of verbal prefixes	25
1.4. Previous studies of complex verbs	26
1.4.1. Verb-particle constructions in English	26
1.4.2. Prefixed verbs in Polish	27
2. The relation OUT OF	33
2.1. Previous analyses of the prefix wy-	33
2.2. The central spatial senses	34
2.3. Metaphorical extensions of the central spatial senses	39
2.4. The peripheral senses	57
2.5. Summary	60
3. The relation INTO	62
3.1. Previous analyses of the prefix w(e)-	62
3.2. The central spatial senses	63
3.3. Metaphorical extensions of the central spatial senses	67
3.4. The peripheral senses	74
3.5. Summary	76

4. The relation AWAY FROM	77
4.1. Previous analyses of the prefix od(e)-	77
4.2. The central spatial senses	78
4.3. Metaphorical extensions of the central spatial senses	80
4.4. The sense 'movement back'	87
4.5. The peripheral senses	92
4.6. Summary	96
5. The relation TO	98
5.1. The prefix do-	98
5.1.1. Previous analyses of the prefix do-	98
5.1.2. The central spatial sense: 'movement to a goal'	99
5.1.3. Metaphorical extensions of the central spatial sense.....	100
5.1.4. The sense 'attaching a part to a whole'	105
5.1.5. Summary.....	108
5.2. The prefix przy-	109
5.2.1. Previous analyses of the prefix przy-	109
5.2.2. The central spatial sense: 'movement to a goal'	110
5.2.3. Metaphorical extensions of the central spatial sense.....	111
5.2.4. The sense 'attaching'	114
5.2.5. The peripheral senses: 'touching, pressing'	119
5.2.6. Summary.....	122
5.3. Differences between the prefixes do- and przy-	123
6. Conclusions	124
6.1. Networks of senses of prefixes	124
6.2. The semantic contribution of the prefix and the base	126
6.3. Relationships between the four relations and their extensions	129
6.3.1. The comparison of spatial meanings of the Polish prefixes	132
6.3.2. The comparison of metaphorical extensions of the Polish prefixes	136
6.3.2.1. Oppositions conceptualized as opposite relations.....	136
6.3.2.2. Oppositions conceptualized in terms of one relation	137
Bibliography	141